

CALL FOR 28 MEN

LOCAL EXEMPTION BOARD RECEIVES NOTICE OF QUOTA FOR CAMP KEARNY

Brigadier General J. J. Borree in a letter dated June 1st has advised the local Exemption Board that under Induction Call No. 672 its quota will be 28 men, who will be entrained during the five-day period beginning June 24th, to be sent to Camp Kearny. Only white men physically fit for military service are to be furnished.

The communication also states that the call must be filled from men in Class 1, but not exceeded. If practicable, the provisions relating to men actively engaged in the planting and cultivation of crops should be complied with. If the local Board is unable to fill this allotment from within Class 1, due to compliance with these regulations, it will proceed to select such farmers as in its judgment can best be spared.

Notifications to registered men in Class 1 will be sent out immediately.

W. C. T. U. SOCIAL

Last Friday afternoon the spacious parlors of Rev. and Mrs. G. F. Corbin, 730 South Adams street, were filled with White Ribboners in an enjoyable social gathering.

The genial host and hostesses with their accomplished daughters contributed several numbers, adding much to the pleasure of the program.

Mrs. Corbin, who, with her husband, has been a missionary in Mexico for over thirty years, opened the meeting with an inspiring Bible lesson from 1st Corinthians, the 13th chapter. Mrs. Wickham, a married daughter visiting the home, favored with a beautiful cornet solo, accompanied on the piano by Miss Corbin, who left during the afternoon to take a government position in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Harshman, another daughter, whose husband is in the U. S. government service, gave two very pleasing readings, and Mr. Corbin, recently returned from his church General Conference held in Atlanta, Ga., brought messages of the action of that body relative to prohibition and the Sabbath question.

The parliamentary drill conducted by Mrs. Lemon proved both pleasing and instructive.

A communication was read by Mrs. Jennie Mottern, Legislative Superintendent, from the Bone-Dry Federation of California, which has inaugurated a campaign to place a bone-dry amendment on the ballot in November. This organization is anti-liquor as well as anti-saloon. It is affiliated with the National Dry Federation of which W. J. Bryan is president. Its platform is:

1. Win the War.
2. Ratify Federal Amendment.
3. War Prohibition, States and Nation.
4. Opposition to the Rominger Liquor Bill.
5. California bone dry this year.

This being in harmony with the principles of the W. C. T. U. organization, the meeting voted unanimously to support this measure and lend it aid in every possible way for success.

Further discussion of the bill, also the dangerous Rominger bill, will be given at the next meeting, Friday afternoon, June 7, at the home of Mrs. Lela Graham, corner of Third street and Verdugo road.

DEATH OF LOUIS BADDOUR

Louis Baddour, a Frenchman who came to this country from Egypt and who had resided in Glendale but about six weeks, suddenly expired of acute gastritis June 1st, at the age of 26 years. He was a shoemaker by trade and was in the employ of Mr. Klein. Since he came to this city he had resided at 1003 Maple avenue. He leaves a wife who was with him here and a child who is with his mother in Egypt. Funeral services will be held at the Pulliam Undertaking Parlors Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock. They will be conducted by Rev. W. E. Edmonds and interment will be made in Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

LADIES' NIGHT

Elks who enjoyed Ladies' Night, which was celebrated Saturday evening at the Elks' Club House, declare that it was one grand good time. About two hundred ladies and gentlemen were present, all Glendale people. The arrangements for the party, for which Mr. Dibbern was responsible, were highly satisfactory and tended to increase the growing popularity of these monthly functions.

NEW PHOTOGRAPHIC ESTABLISHMENT

The Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber Company has begun the erection of a brick building which will adjoin the office of J. B. Doner on the south. It is being built with special reference to the business needs of C. C. Isaacs of Upland, a photographer, who has leased it for ten years and who is coming to Glendale with his family to live. The building will be a one-story affair, 15x50, with the necessary glass exposures. Mr. Isaacs is an old friend of Mr. Doner and through his good offices was attracted to Glendale. The work will be rushed and his quarters are to be ready for occupancy July 1st.

IMPRESSIONS OF FRANCE

E. M. Sawyer of this city, who is now in France, has written some interesting letters, though he is careful to avoid any details to which objection could be made by military authorities. He is evidently back of the lines and has written his mother, Mrs. F. D. Sawyer, that he is doing his own cooking. He says everything is very primitive and almost everybody wears wooden shoes, and that he is a long way from the front. The cherry trees are in blossom and it makes him think of spring in Massachusetts. He sent his mother a beautifully decorated Easter memento and he has written her of the beautiful embroideries that are offered for sale. There is a Y. M. C. A. at his camp, so he can get all the reading he needs. The country interests him greatly for he has been a traveler who traveled for the love of it since he was fifteen years of age, but he says the United States will be good enough for him if he ever gets back. He had been in France about three months and when he received his orders at Monterey he secured permission to go east via the Panama canal. He found it a wonderfully interesting trip and wrote that he enjoyed every minute of it.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Booth of 429 Gardena avenue spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Freeman of 152 West Forty-fifth street, Los Angeles.

SUBMARINES ON AMERICAN COAST

CAPTAIN NEWCOMB OF THE EDWIN COLE AND CREW OF THE BRISTOL TELL OF OPERATIONS NEAR U. S. PORTS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The navy department announced enemy submarine activities on the American coast as follows:

"The steamer Bristol arriving in port this morning reported that the schooler Edwin Cole had been sunk by a German submarine Sunday evening at 6:30, 65 miles off Barnegat, N. J. The Bristol rescued the crew of the Edwin Cole and also picked up the crew of another vessel that had been torpedoed.

The Bristol also reported an encounter with a submarine 38 miles off Barnegat Sunday afternoon at 4:30 and stated that two submarines were operating in the vicinity.

The steamer Grecian arriving here reported that the Jacob Haskell had been sunk by German gunfire in the same vicinity Sunday afternoon. The crew was rescued.

Captain Newcomb of the Edwin Cole reported that the Isabella Willy had been shelled. Captain Newcomb stated that the submarine which destroyed his ship was 200 feet long and had large guns mounted fore and aft with a smaller gun amidships. The other submarine was submerged to its periscope.

SEVEN AMERICAN VESSELS SUNK

SURVIVORS OF TORPEDOED SHIPS SAY DIVERS THAT ATTACKED THEM WERE FLYING AMERICAN FLAG

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

NEW YORK, June 3.—Seven vessels have been victims of enemy submarine activities off the coast of New Jersey according to reports received up to 2 o'clock this afternoon, with the possibility that the number may be increased to 15. Officials say the submarines were undoubtedly sent into these waters to attack transports. Their mission failed.

Port officials here and all along the Atlantic coast have been ordered to keep their vessels in the harbors.

Captain Newcomb and ten members of his crew of the torpedoed Edwin Cole declare the submarines which attacked them were flying the American flag. The diver sent a shot over their bow and gave the crew ten minutes to leave the ship. From the rowboats the men saw the Germans board the Edwin Cole with bombs.

Stock of all classes in all American exchanges slumped today following news of submarine activities.

FRENCH COUNTER ATTACKS SUCCESSFUL

DON'TS FOR GIRLS

REV. W. E. EDMONDS GIVES ADVICE TO DAUGHTERS AND GROWN-UP DAUGHTERS

Rev. W. E. Edmonds is preaching a series of sermons on themes connected with domestic life. His subject Sunday evening last concerned mothers and daughters and he took for his text, "She hath done what she could." He spoke of the changed conditions between present times and the times in which the mothers and grandmothers of the present generation lived, dwelling upon the opportunities for physical development afforded by the athletic training which girls now share with boys and which he rejoices to see; also the larger measure of freedom of thought and action which is accorded girls of today and how it is at once their protection and their danger. He pointed out how necessary it is that the foundations of character should be laid sure and strong and the ability to detect unerringly the line of demarcation between right and wrong. Because of these conditions, so different from previous times, he urged mothers to exercise forbearance and try to look at life from the standpoint of the modern girl and aid instead of thwarting her. His argument all led back to Christian teaching in the home. Said he:

"I believe the Christian home is the solution of every problem in our land today, and we are facing some big ones. I would rather live in a house upon which there is no roof than to live in a home where there is no altar, where there is no prayer and where God's word is not honored. I believe in womanhood with every ounce of my strength and so high do I hold her that I feel I can not speak too strongly on holding up the standard of womanhood. You young women here tonight owe everything you have to Christianity. You would be nothing but hewers of wood and drawers of water were it not for the Christian Church. God could have prepared this world, had he wanted to do so, without the help of women, but he laid his hand in blessing upon Eve and said to her: 'You shall be the mother of all flesh.' Then he called a young woman out from among the people. Mary was her name, and entrusted her to be the mother of his only Begotten Son. That is why I am emphasizing the glory and dignity of womanhood.

"Girls, don't allow anything to come into your life that will weaken your bodies. Unless you are strong, vigorous and well you will go down under the strain brought upon you by life's duties. I am glad to speak of the wonderful work the Y. W. C. A. is doing in giving young women opportunities to do the things that will strengthen their bodies. The coming generation is going to demand more of women than the past generation has. Women with strong bodies will come out on top, but the weak women will go down."

Mr. Edmonds then spoke of the dangers of the greater liberty which the modern girl enjoys and of the necessity to carefully guard her good name, saying: "A good name is the most priceless jewel a woman has. If she sins, God will save her, Jesus Christ will forgive, but society will not. Her sisters will spit upon her. Because of this athletic proposition, I believe our girls are getting a little careless about their dress, and I believe too the modern dance has done a great deal to lower the dignity of our girls. They are permitting liberties which would not have been tolerated under other conditions." He then spoke of the promiscuous mingling at the beaches in scanty clothing, which would be considered highly scandalous at home in a parlor.

He then gave a series of "don'ts" for the girls, beginning with "Don't ever soil your lips by the use of cheap slang. When I hear a girl say, 'Gee whiz!' and 'By golly!' I know that she is going down the social toboggan."

"Don't get the reputation of being vivacious and smart. Sooner or later you will be called a flirt. You are living in a world of realities and can not afford to play fast and loose with them."

"Don't chew gum in public. It is bad manners to say the least. If you must chew, do it in private."

"Don't fly off the handle. You are not entitled to the whole consideration in the home. You ought to carry your responsibilities as well as the boys. I do not think a mother is doing her duty when she does not require the girls to do their part. No girl is too good to do kitchen work and she ought to be brought up to do it. Girls should be ashamed to make drudges of their mothers."

"Don't get jealous. It has put out the light of life for many a woman."

A SECOND SUCCESS

LADIES WHO GAVE CRANFORD MUSICAL AGAIN GREETED BY LARGE AUDIENCE

The genuine merit of the Old Cranford Musicales which was given its second performance Saturday evening was proven by the fact that it was a greater success, if that were possible, than the first time. The auditorium fairly rocked with applause at times and every number was warmly encoored though some of the artists merely bowed their acknowledgments and did not attempt to repeat their triumphs.

The program opened with the tuneless, catchy song by the Glendale artist, Julius Kranz, "Just Leave It to Uncle Sam," sung by little Robert Lehman, made up as "Uncle Sam." He did it very effectively and the audience showed its appreciation in the big applause it gave him. The words of this song were written by W. F. Richardson of Glendale.

There were a few changes in the delightful musical program put on by the Bessie Fuhrer String Sextette, which this time numbered but five instruments. A Mozart Minueto was substituted for the Paderewski Minueto, McDowell's "Wild Rose" for the Gluck Gavotte, otherwise it was the same as on the first night and was much enjoyed. As before, the musicians were garbed to suit the occasion in quaint but pretty gowns.

"Cranford" was practically unchanged and created a riot of amusement and pleasure in the large audience, which came with anticipations whetted by the reports of the first entertainment, the fame of which has so spread abroad that many visitors were present from other cities.

While the returns have not yet been ascertained, they are sure to provide another generous contribution to the Red Cross, a most worthy gift from the music section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, highly creditable to all the performers, especially Mrs. Freeman Kelley, who arranged it, and to Mrs. Harry Greenwalt, who was the business manager.

D. A. R. BREAKFAST

The annual white breakfast of the General Richard Gridley chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution is an event always long looked forward to by the members of the chapter. This event, which will take place Thursday of this week at the home of the regent, Mrs. Mary Gridley-Brady, 205 North Brand boulevard, Mrs. Brady is making preparations to make this affair the happiest that has ever been given by the chapter. Elaborate decorations of white are being planned and musicians from Los Angeles have been engaged. Mrs. T. W. Preston will be the toastmistress and every member of the chapter will be expected to respond to a toast.

LITERARY SECTION

The Literary Section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club will meet at the home of the curator, Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, 101 South Brand boulevard, Tuesday afternoon at the usual hour. Matters of importance are to come before the section and it is hoped that every member will be present.

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair tonight and Tuesday. Easterly winds.

Just go along the middle of the road and mind your own business.

"Don't give yourself up to the reading of trashy books. Cultivate the best reading, the books that are worth while. Above all, become familiar with the best book in all the world."

"Sometimes there is trouble in the home between parents and daughters when the suitors begin to come around. If the suitor is a clean and honorable man, let him in; if he isn't, kick him out. I would rather a daughter of mine would marry a man working by the day on the streets than one of those 'high flyers.' When a girl has grown up to a sound, healthy womanhood, she should be trusted and not be watched all the time, and should be permitted to choose for herself."

"Where daughters have gone astray it is because the mothers did not make their preparations for motherhood before the child was born. How can a mother who is not a Christian bring up a child in the right way? When mothers are as much concerned about the souls of their children as they are about their bodies, they will not have as much occasion to worry over them."

"Girls, don't be a little Christian; don't be satisfied with simply having your name on the church records. Tackle something big for God."

"Mothers, remember that your daughters were God's before they were yours. Look out what you do with God's property."

HOW MONEY MAKES MONEY

How money makes money is shown by the Potter Palmer estate. Potter Palmer was a business genius. He accumulated in an ordinary lifetime, an estate of eight million dollars. For sixteen years this property has been in the hands of his widow, who died the other day in Florida. In those sixteen years the increase in the value of real estate has doubled the eight million, making it sixteen million.

This is what is called the "unearned increment." This increase was added to the property by the labor of Chicago's millions of people, and the resulting progress and development of the city. The public that created it does not get a cent of this eight millions of added value, except the very small part returned by our present system of taxation.

Land values rise most rapidly in the big cities. New York City is now trying to give to the people who earn it a somewhat greater share of this unearned increment. It is being done by a system of taxation which will prevent the great landed proprietors of New York City from doubling their huge fortunes every eight or ten years by simply holding on to what they've got. New York is putting a gradually increased tax on their improvements. The effect of this is to compel these big landholders to do something with their property which will benefit the public as well as themselves.

WHO IS UNCLE SAM?

The children in a school room were reporting their experience with thrift stamp selling. The teacher was making an English lesson out of the telling of their stories. One child varied the monotony. "A lady told me she was not going to buy any thrift stamps. She was going to let Uncle Sam run this war and pay for running it."

The teacher did not hesitate. "Will you please go back to that lady," she said, "and tell her, very nicely and politely, of course, that your teacher told you to ask her, 'Who is Uncle Sam?'"

It's a question well worth putting—not only to those who seem a little disloyal, and those who seem a little loyal, but to one's self. It's so easy, when things go wrong, to put the blame on some impersonal agency, such as the government or a political party or upon Uncle Sam.

And who is Uncle Sam? And who runs the government in a democracy?—Exchange.

CONVERSION OF LIBERTY BONDS

Liberty Bonds of the first issue, Liberty Bonds of the second issue, and Liberty Bonds obtained by converting bonds of the first issue into bonds of the second issue can be converted into bonds of the third issue during the six months' period beginning May 9 and ending November 9, 1918.

Delivery of the bonds issued in conversion can not be made prior to July 1, but bonds presented for conversion on or before that date will be retained by the Treasury and a nonnegotiable receipt issued therefor. Interest will be adjusted in each case between the Government and the bondholder.

After November 9, 1918, no further rights of conversion will attach to the 4 per cent bonds, either the original bonds of the second loan or those obtained by conversion of bonds of the first loan. Bonds of the first issue, however, will still have the privilege of conversion into any bonds issued, at a higher rate of interest than 3½ per cent, before the termination of the war. All of the 4½ per cent bonds are nonconvertible.

Bonds for conversion may be surrendered at any Federal reserve bank or at the Treasury Department. Registered bonds must be assigned to the Secretary of the Treasury, but such assignment need not be witnessed.

On conversion of registered bonds, registered bonds only will be delivered, neither change of ownership nor change into coupon bonds being permitted.

Coupon bonds, however, may be converted into registered bonds upon request. Coupon bonds must have the May 15, or June 15, 1918, coupons and all subsequent coupons attached. Coupon bonds issued from conversion will have only four interest coupons attached, and later must be exchanged for new bonds with the full number of coupons attached.

All bonds issued upon conversion into 4½ per cent bonds will be dated May 9. The bonds secured upon conversion of bonds of the first loan and bonds obtained by conversion of bonds of the first loan into 4 per cent bonds will carry interest from June 15. Bonds issued upon conversion of 4 per cent bonds of the second issue will carry interest from May 15.

NATION-WIDE ECONOMY

To carry out the program of national economy demanded of the American people by the war they must adopt scientific and systematic methods of economy. Spasmodic and periodic saving will not fulfill the demand upon us.

One method that has been proposed and has the approval of the Treasury Department is for every American to pledge himself or herself to economize and save, and with the savings at definite periods purchase specific amounts of war-savings stamps.

We must give our Nation, we must give our men in arms, all the strength and support possible. To do this we must cut our own demands on the labor, material, and money of the country to the limit, and increase to the limit the supply of money, material, and labor available to the Government. All of our energies and resources should be devoted to the winning of the war, and to accomplish this we must economize, save, and lend to the Government.

A definite systematic plan of saving, strengthened by resolve and a pledge to save and lend to the Government, will be productive of the best results. The savings plan campaign is now on. Every patriotic American should make a pledge to save and keep the pledge.

Thirty thousand cans of jam were sent overseas in one Y. M. C. A. shipment for American soldiers over there. There were 412,000 packages of biscuits also, a necessary adjunct.

JACK LONDON CLUBS

Jack London's "Michael, Brother of Jerry," in which he shows up in a convincing way the cruelty practiced in the training of animals for stage stunts, is a greater book than "Black Beauty" and is destined to add many laurels to the reputation of this great writer who is no more. Clubs are being formed of persons who wish to stand as protestants against this form of cruelty and already many thousands have been enrolled. There are no dues for the Jack London Clubs, and to become a member one has only to send his or her name to the club, 130 Longwood avenue, Boston. London has said in his book:

"No normal healthy human would tolerate such performances did he or she know the terrible cruelty that lies behind them and makes them possible."

He says there is one way to stop it. When humane men and women and children will get up and leave the theatre during one of these animal turns, returning to their seats when it is over, the management will know these performances are not wanted and will cease catering them to the public.

Personals

Mrs. Julie Markuson and daughter Grace, who have been the guests of Mrs. T. J. Meagher, are leaving this week for Seattle, Wash.

Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Walker, who have been residing at 222 1/2 South Louise, have moved to 1420 West Fifth street until September 1st.

F. L. Muhleman and family and Alfred J. Muhleman and family spent Sunday at Sulphur Springs above Mint Canyon, where they camped for dinner and enjoyed a very pleasant picnic.

Mrs. Frank H. Head and two little daughters, Nancy Blake and Mary Wirt, of Ardmore, Oklahoma, arrived in Glendale Sunday to spend the summer at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Franklin, 200 S. Central avenue.

Dwight Stephenson came up to spend a few hours' leave with his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Stephenson, Sunday. He is in the officers' training camp and looks rugged and well but sunburnt.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Meagher and daughter Geraldine spent Thursday at Long Beach, where they entertained ten at a picnic dinner in honor of Mrs. Meagher's nephew, Roland Benner of Co. C., 21st Infantry.

J. H. Parsons, who for several months has been conducting a fruit stand at 1102 1/2 Broadway, the A. P. Offutt building, has discontinued business and intends to return to Seattle, where he will again take up his trade, that of cabinet maker.

Mrs. Louise Purnell of 139 West Tenth street will entertain the members of the Kensington Club at her home Thursday afternoon. She will be assisted by Mesdames Edith Bruck, Winona Crawford, Gertrude Griffin and Jennie Phillips.

Louis Lewis was in Glendale for a week-end visit and called at the Ford agency, where he naturally gravitated to a desk and to work. He says he can't stay away from there when he is anywhere in the neighborhood. He looks big and soldierly.

Mr. and Mrs. Chapman and little girl, of 1537 West Third street, have returned after a four-day stay at Long Beach, where they had a delightful holiday. They report that the city was pretty crowded on Decoration Day and again on Sunday.

J. B. Doner reports that Dr. Marlene, a young married man, has bought the Wightman place at Sixth street and Central avenue. He comes from San Bernardino and is an oculist by profession. He and his wife will occupy the house as soon as the present tenants vacate.

Percy Davis, instructor in mathematics at the High School, has just returned from an auto trip to his ranch in San Diego county, on which he was accompanied by Mrs. Davis and his little son. They had a delightful outing, lasting from Wednesday night to Monday morning, and the journey was a success in all respects.

All officials of the Red Cross chapter will meet Tuesday evening at the home of the president, John Hyde Braly, 205 North Brand boulevard, for the transaction of important business. Officers of the chapter will officially say farewell to this meeting to A. L. Lawshe, who has rendered such efficient and devoted service to the cause and who is going east on a vacation trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Blake Franklin and family returned Sunday afternoon from Manhattan, where they went last Thursday for a week-end outing. They report that it has vastly improved within the past year and is developing rapidly, that a $70,000 new pier is being built there and a $20,000 pavilion, with gas plates, tables, etc., for the convenience of transients who come down for the day. It has taken a new spurt and is a very nice beach, much quieter and nicer for families than the noisier beaches.

Inasmuch as garages connected with private residences have been used as booths in recent city elections in Glendale, the following item settling a disputed point in connection with building restrictions will be of interest. It is taken from the Southwest Builder and Contractor: "Renting of a private garage for use as an election booth is not a violation of restrictions in a deed declaring property shall be used only for residential purposes, according to a decision by Judge Dewhirst, in the Los Angeles county courts. The ruling was made in a suit brought by Wesley Clark and E. P. Bryan against George P. and Florence E. Thresher to quiet title to their property in Westmoreland place, valued at $50,000, on the ground that the defendants had violated restrictions in the deed."

Suppose it were "over here"?

Mrs. Lewis of 1417 West Broadway claims to be getting a liberal education in the vagaries of hens. She came to Glendale about two months ago and immediately acquired six hens who proved to be most efficient in the production of eggs and so pleased their mistress that she was easily persuaded to buy six more. These introduced war into the poultry yard and the egg production at once fell off. She is now endeavoring to dispose of the whole lot. She is greatly interested in war work as she has a son, Lieutenant William David Lewis, now in the service of the government in Georgia. He is a graduate of an engineering course at Stanford and enlisted through that institution.

DRIVES TO BEAR VALLEY

Mrs. Nannie Miller, proprietor of Thornycroft hospital, has just returned from a four-day auto tour to Bear Lake. She has been driving only four months and had courage to attempt such a mountain trip, which meant an ascent of 8000 feet, but she experienced no difficulty whatever and had a delightful time. She was accompanied by Miss Myrtle Clark and Miss Jessie Robertson of Los Angeles and Miss Bettie Hoxworth of Thornycroft. They drove first to Victorville and from there went to Bear Valley. She describes the country as very beautiful, with delightful camps where tourists are given a most hospitable welcome and delicious things to eat in the way of fresh fruit, vegetables and trout. The fishing is said to be very good now.

NIGHT AUTO DRIVERS

With the coming of summer and the natural increase of night driving on narrow country roads, a demand has been made by automobile clubs in many parts of the country for the enforcement of state and city automobile headlight laws. It was pointed out at many of the recent spring meetings of state organizations that, while almost every state in the union has a headlight law, there are very few states where the law is enforced.

Most of the states laws were initiated by the local automobile club or association for the protection of all automobiles. Practically all the laws require the elimination of the glare by restricting the direct rays to 42 inches above the ground at any point. Some headlight lenses and non-glare devices are designed to eliminate the direct ray altogether by entirely diffusing the light in all directions.

The McKee Standard lens, made by the McKee Glass Company, of Jeanette, Pa., eliminates the glare, but does not do away with the direct ray. By the use of horizontal prisms, the direct rays, or "distance beam," is bent downward, so that it is on the road far ahead of the car, and out of the eyes of the approaching motorist. By the use of short, vertical prisms at the top of the lens, sufficient light is diffused to light up the road in front and at the sides of the car. The McKee Standard is the only concave-convex lens on the market.

HARDENED INFANTRY CAN MARCH 25 MILES A DAY

The Army Drill Book tells that trained and hardened infantry can cover from twenty to twenty-five miles a day when in small bodies. As the size of the command increases the distance covered becomes less, as the rate is lowered and time is needed to get all the units into and out of camp. With a regiment or less of average troops—regulars—marching over average roads, the rate should be from two and three-quarters to three miles an hour, while a division can not be expected to accomplish more than twelve and a half miles a day.

Of course, all these figures will vary with different conditions of roads and weather. Untrained troops could not approach them until hardened. Though they might do better for a day or two, they could not keep up the steady pace of the seasoned regulars for a long distance.

Marching with full equipment is hard physical labor, and, like every other form of labor, requires a proper period of training. The seasoned force will keep up a steady pace, with ten minute halts every hour, a fifteen minute stop being made at the end of the first half or three-quarters of an hour. Green troops are apt to straggle badly.—Outing Magazine.

DEPENDENT UPON ENGLISH CLAY

Most people think clay is something as common and abundant as sand or gravel. Consequently it comes as a surprise to be told by the Shipping Board Committee on Mineral Imports and Exports in Washington, that even in this day of great shortage of ocean going ships the United States has to import from England every year 200,000 to 250,000 long tons of clay.

Furthermore, a great part of this clay comes over in steamers loaded full and the rest in big steamers loaded with clay up to 50% and more of their maximum carrying capacity. These ships put into Fowey, England, for their freight. To get clay on and off the boats requires ten days on each cargo. An insignificant percentage of the clay is shipped as ballast.

A great deal of high-grade clay is produced in the United States, and of a character suitable for pottery, porcelains and other articles which require clays of special excellence in their manufacture. But not much over half of clay of this grade that our industries require is domestic. When war broke out in 1914 only a third of it was domestic. We have not been able to develop and equip our deposits fast enough to make these English clay imports unnecessary. In fact it is doubtful whether we will produce as much high-grade clay in 1918 as we did in 1917.

Domestic producers do not mine their clay quite as cleanly as their English competitors. Nor is the domestic clay as uniform in character. It will not bring the high prices paid for English clay. But more could be sold if it could be produced and carried to its market.

However, our complete dependence upon English clay continues. We must rely on English clay as a chief ingredient of the dishes we eat from, the paper in our books and magazines, the porcelain in our electric light sockets and half a dozen other articles of less general use.

TALK ON CITY MANAGER

Eagle Rock Sentinel: The regular monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held Tuesday evening in the Library auditorium. There was only a fair attendance. It has been the plan of President Daniels to have some able non-resident speaker address the Chamber on some subject of interest each month. On this occasion Frank L. Muhleman, a city trustee of Glendale, spoke on "Some Phases of a City Manager."

The speaker gave an interesting talk on the subject, based on the knowledge he learned from the practical workings of a city manager in Glendale. We can only give a few essential points in his address:

A city manager could be appointed by the city board of trustees under the State law. The board can not shift their responsibility, but they can appoint some one to look after the work, to be on the job and act as a sort of clearing house for the board. Observation led to the need of some one who should have power to look into affairs needing attention and act without delay. City trustees usually have to work for a living and do not have the time to devote to looking after the city's needs. Hence the need of some one to do it for them, or the city suffers.

The right kind of manager was a good person to ease off objections to public improvements and pacify the complainers; he made out the city budget and kept expenses within the quota; he saved the city of Glendale $7000 last year, his salary is $2400. The city manager could handle other department work, or the street superintendent or other city officer might be the manager and not only save money, but see that needed work is done.

Mr. Muhleman did not claim sufficient knowledge to advise what Eagle Rock should or should not do.

SEVENTEEN TUNNELS ARE TO BE ENLARGED

The Southern Pacific company has completed plans for enlarging and lining with concrete seventeen tunnels through the Tehachapi. Work will be started soon and will be conducted without interrupting traffic.

For the first time in western railroading, the semi-liquid concrete will be shot into place by pneumatic pressure. Experiments have convinced Assistant Chief Engineer J. Q. Barlow of the practicability of the plan by which pneumatic concrete mixer, giant air compressor and a 230 horsepower gasoline engine are mounted on flat cars stationed outside the tunnel so as not to interfere with travel. The concrete when it is mixed and ready for use is conveyed through a six inch pipe where it is needed and discharged into the arch of the tunnel, whence it works its way down along the sides.

And you are not even asked to give only lend—

MEDAL AWARDS UNKNOWN HERO

By Henry Wood

(United Press Correspondent)
WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES
AFIELD, April 30.—(By Mail.)—
This is the stuff of which the French "poilu" is made.

The regulation formula consists of one third heroism, one third sense of duty and one third of modesty that makes it impossible for his chiefs to hunt him out and decorate him. The whole is the best all-around soldier the war has produced. This is a typical one:

When the French, following the creation of a dangerous salient by the extension of the German line to Montdidier, decided to fall back from the junction of the Oise and the Ailette, the movement was begun as soon as the Germans attacked the French advance posts there in order that it might be accomplished without confusion or loss.

One of the last French soldiers to evacuate Coucy, while the Germans were still some distance away, was a stretcher bearer. Almost at the moment of his departure, he stumbled upon a wounded French soldier. As there was neither a stretcher nor another soldier to help carry it, he took the wounded soldier onto his back and started for the rear.

Back of Coucy he came upon a stream where the French in retreat had blown up the bridge. Examination, however, revealed the fact that with a long plank it would still be possible for him to span the two broken ends of the bridge.

A plank was accordingly found and thrown across, and on this the stretcher bearer passed over still carrying the wounded man on his back. In doing so it suddenly occurred to him that if it were that easy for him to cross the upblown bridge it would be equally as easy for the Germans who were now advancing nearer and nearer. Such an easy crossing, he realized, might endanger the tranquil falling back of the French to their new positions.

Accordingly, as soon as he had reached the other side, he first pulled after him his plank, then placing his wounded man in a place of safety where he would be out of danger of bullets and shell splinters, he went in search of an ax. Finding one, he quickly returned and, under the fire of the ever-approaching Germans, cut down the supporting piles of the bridge until he had created a gap that it would be impossible for the Germans to bridge without the intervention of their engineers.

Then, getting the wounded soldier on his back again, he made his way to the new French lines where he turned his wounded comrade over to the first dressing station.

The next day, the general who had commanded the falling back movement passed through the hospital and happened to learn from the lips of the wounded man himself how the German advance had been delayed by the stretcher bearer's destruction of the bridge.

"I award him the Medaille Militaire" (the most coveted decoration of the French soldier), exclaimed the General. "Summon the man at once and I will decorate him here."

Orderlies went to look for the stretcher bearer, but no trace of him could be found. Nobody even knew his name.

He was merely a French soldier like hundreds of thousands of others, who, seeing his duty, had done it and then had gone to hunt up his company without ever thinking that he might be rewarded for what he had done.

The Medaille Militaire still is being held at the General's headquarters for the stretcher bearer. But unless mere chance should again bring him face to face with the wounded man whose life he saved, or unless he should chance to see this story, he will never know that the highest honor of the French soldier is awaiting him.

SERVICE RESERVE IS ENROLLING RAPIDLY

England has been in the war almost three years longer than the United States, but this country already is stepping ahead in enrolling and placing men in skilled war jobs. Four months after its organization England's National Service Volunteers reported it had enrolled 350,000 men and placed 13,000 in service at a cost of $577,000.

Three months after organization the United States Public Service Reserve had enrolled 315,000 men and placed 13,000 at a cost of $22,238 to the government.

CONCRETE DEPOT

The Pacific Electric Railway Company has had plans prepared by its engineering department for a new railway depot to be erected at Fullerton. The structure will be Mission style and will be of reinforced concrete construction.

 ***Not move him why the idea—all the while the little lady—

***Carrying the babe looked so pale and weak I was afraid—
 ***She would faint right there—the conductor said—
 ***I have charge of this car so you will have to move—
 ***That cur—just as she was beginning to spit back some—

***Kind of a nasty retort my patience broke loose and I reached—
 ***Over and grasped the dog by the fur of its back with one—
 ***Hand and the pad with the other and deposited them both—
 ***In the haughty woman's lap I said ain't you got a heart—

***Woman can't you see this poor lady is tired to death—
 ***But she hissed something and placed the mutt back on—
 ***The seat beside her—the next instant I grabbed up the—
 ***Cur again and dropped it once more in her lap if you—

***Put that dog on that seat again I said I'll throw him out—
 ***Of the window but she only hissed twice this time and—
 ***Carefully placed Fido once more on the seat beside her—
 ***I had never told a deliberate falsehood in my life so—

***Far as I knew and it was too late then to start on the—
 ***Downward road so true to my word I picked up the pup—
 ***And tossed him thru the open window when he landed we—
 ***Heard a series of yips that grew fainter as the car—

***Left him farther and farther behind—the haughty woman—
 ***Uttered a cry of dismay and rage and the way she went—
 ***After me was awful I managed to cover up so that I came—
 ***Out with only a few scratches and the next thing I knew—

***The car had stopped and the woman had gotten off and—
 ***Was racing back to pick up the darling Fido which was—
 ***Still squeaking at the top of its pattered voice—I ***Helped the tired little lady into the seat and took—

***The babe from her breaking arms and was amusing the sweet—
 ***Little fellow when the folks who had seen the fuss gath—
 ***Ered around and grasped my hand one fellow suggested I—
 ***Be given a Carnegie medal but I raised my hand and said—

***Don't cheer fellows and cut out your leather badges—
 ***I don't deserve one I'm ashamed of the hasty way—
 ***I acted I forgot for the minute that a gentleman—
 ***Should be kind and considerate to the weaker sex—

***Just then I stroked the head of the little fellow and—
 ***He laughed and I looked across at the tired little—
 ***Mother and her face lighted up for the first time since—
 ***Entering the car—it was a smile of gratitude for the—

***Little I had done—then my heart thumped and I was—
 ***Glad I had shield the pup thru the window and almost—
 ***Wished I had tumbled the haughty dame out after him—
 ***Goodbye 'till next time—Hen***

During the Spanish-American war a young soldier who also became a proud father named his baby son after William McKinley, who was then president. The other day a French general called this William McKinley Hurley from the ranks of his comrades on a foreign field and pinned the croix de guerre to his youthful breast. The boys are growing fast. The William McKinley Smiths are joining the Grover Cleveland Smiths in the trenches and may be shortly joined by the Theodore Roosevelt Smiths. It is greatly to be hoped that the strife will be over before the William Taft Smiths and Woodrow Wilson Smiths are ripe for the service, but they will be there if the summons come.

SHORTAGE OF SUGAR IS EXPLAINED

The Department of Agriculture authorizes the following:

If any man has failed to see the reason why he should cut his plentiful apportionment of two spoonfuls of sugar to the one of war time, he can find it in a recent publication of the Department of Agriculture explaining the worldwide shortage—especially the shortage among the allies—in the supply of sweets.

Not only has the supply of sugar in some parts of the United States been short, but there has been an actual shortage of more than 2,000,000 tons annually in the world since the war began, and the shortage is likely to continue, the publication says, primarily because of the destruction of a large number of sugar mills and the devastation of a considerable area of sugar-producing lands in Europe.

Prior to the war practically all the belligerent countries, with the exception of the United Kingdom and Italy, exported sugar, the total amount being upward of 3,000,000 tons. War, however, has changed the sugar-production map and at the same time has shifted the channels of trade. In 1918 it is estimated that the allies must import a minimum of 1,200,000 tons of sugar.

Formerly the United Kingdom and France depended to a considerable extent upon Germany, Austria-Hungary, Belgium, and Russia for sugar. These sources were shut off by the war. The United Kingdom alone thus lost the source of more than half of her normal supply of sugar, and has turned to new as well as other old sources for her supply. The changes thus brought about have been largely a diversion of the product of Mauritius to the United Kingdom instead of to India, and an expansion of the imports of unrefined sugar from Cuba, the Philippines, and Peru. For refined sugar she drew upon the United States and Java.

However, the allies can not turn to such exporting countries as Java and Mauritius without being forced to go a much longer distance and over a more perilous route than across the Atlantic. If the allies are compelled to go to these countries it will require an extra amount of shipping, which is needed for transportation of American soldiers and supplies to France and England.

Russia's exports practically ceased in 1914, and she is now reported as somewhat short of sugar. Italy's crop decreased last year, and her imports have increased largely since the war began. Italy's normal consumption, however, is small and her deficit is not serious.

HIS NATURAL ROLE

A nervous old beau entered a costumer's and said:

"I want a little help in the way of a suggestion. I am going to the French students' masquerade ball tonight, and I want a distinctly original costume—something I can be quite sure no one else will wear. What can you suggest?"

The costumer looked him over attentively, bestowing special notice on his gleaming, bald and shining head. "Well, I'll tell you," he said, thoughtfully, "why don't you sugar your head and go as a pill?"—Harper's Magazine.

HE SAW TWO

He was a convivial old soul and in the small country village he missed the delights of town.

So he consoled himself at the village inn and next morning he was up before the local J. P. at the neighboring town.

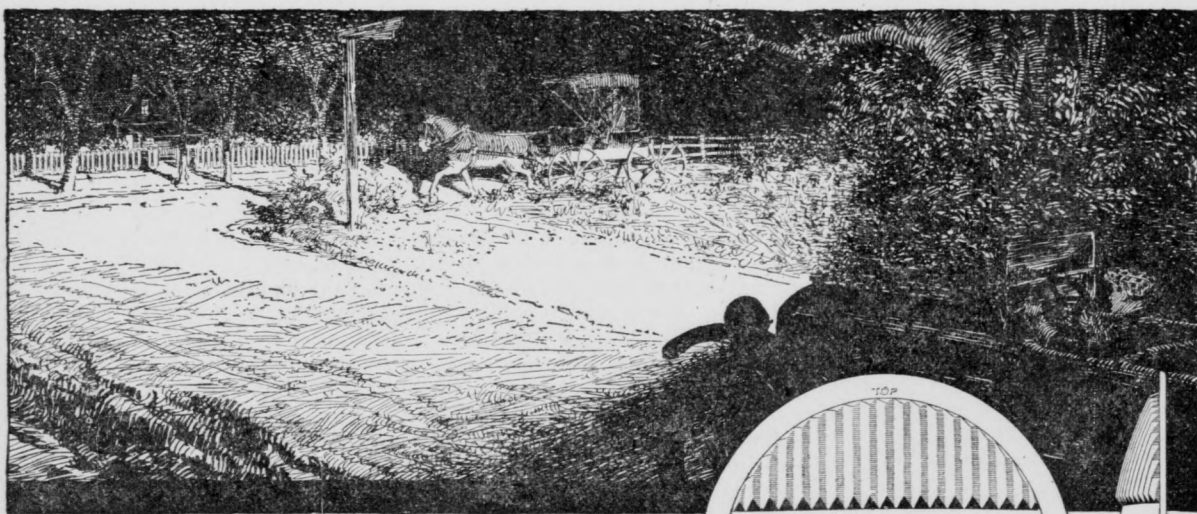

"The constable," observed the city man to the magistrate, "seems wonderfully certain about the details of my case. How is it he doesn't call his fellow officer to corroborate what he says?"

"There's only one constable in Peddelford," explained the magistrate.

"But I saw two last night," indignantly asserted the accused.

"Exactly," said the magistrate, smiling broadly. "That's just the charge against you."

Its Broad Side-Light Makes
Turns and Crossroads Safe

Ride behind the McKee Lens and see the bright light that shows up both sides of the road for 300 feet ahead, at an angle of 30 degrees from the front of the car.

You approach a crossroad!—the side-light warns you of traffic long before you need to slow up in passing. You want to turn the corner!—the side-light shows you what is ahead on the intersecting road, and the character of the roadbed—before you turn. For safety's sake, use the McKee—the lens that combines an intense road beam with an adequate side-light.

If your dealer cannot supply you, send price, size of lens and model of car direct to us.

Two Ways of Looking At It

In order to be legal, some devices reduce the strength of the light, either permanently or while passing a car.

The McKee Lens is legal because it is made right. It needs no dimmers or other accessories. It is of solid glass, crystal-clear, and is as distinctive in appearance as it is efficient. The prisms make all the light do useful work—none is wasted in the air, none held back. The excellent side-light is due to the exclusive concave-convex shape and the outer vertical prisms. For safety's sake, use the McKee.
